Ranking attracts coverage of major news station

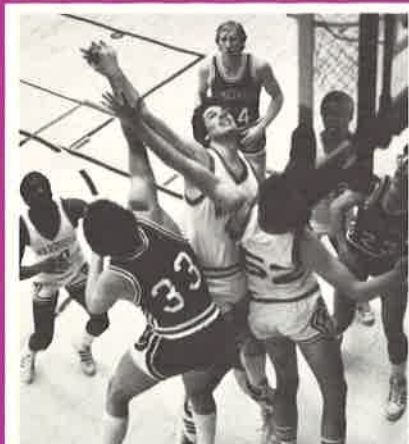

Shortly after receiving word of their #2 ranking in the National Little College Athletic Association, the MCC Warriors traveled to Columbus, Ohio for the North Central District Championship. There, they defeated Josephinum College and earned a position in the NLCAA national finals.

A few days later, Coach Garth Pleasant received a call from John Gross of Detroit's leading news station, Channel 7. The station made arrangements to do a feature on the Warriors, which they aired on the evening of February 23 after an exciting game against Concordia Lutheran College of Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The Warriors then traveled to the NLCAA finals in Oakland City, Indiana, carrying with them a 17-4 season record. Although a 76-81 loss to Northeast Technical Community College of Norfolk, Nebraska and a 92-103 loss to the University of South Carolina at Lancaster did not give the Warriors a tournament title, they returned home with a plaque recognizing them as the #1 rated team in the NLCAA. The Warriors' ranking changed to the first position after Mary Holmes College of West Point, Mississippi moved into the NAIA competition.

High scorers for the season included Ricky Brown of Statenville, Georgia, who averaged eighteen points per game and Mike Adams of Shaker Heights, Ohio, who averaged sixteen. However, Coach Garth Pleasant credited much of the season's success to the right "team chemistry" rather than individual performance. One referee from the national finals seemed to sense this special "chemistry" when he told Coach Pleasant that the team demonstrated the best sportsmanship of any team he had refereed this year.

At a Glance

Chemistry students now have available to them bound volumes of Chemical Abstracts, covering chemical literature from 1930 to 1956. Thornton Community College and Project SEED of the American Chemical Society made possible the acquisition of these valuable reference tools.

Bronze sculptures depicting frontier life in the western United States were recently displayed in the MCC Gold Conference Room by artist Chris Diaz of Abilene, Texas. During his three-day visit, Diaz also served as a guest lecturer in the art classes.

Campus organizations now enjoy the availability of two fifteen-passenger vans. The MCC Associates provided funds to purchase these new vehicles, which provide transportation for traveling groups such as Autumn and the intercollegiate ball teams.

Developmental studies specialists from throughout the country recently participated in the annual NARDSPE convention in Charleston, South Carolina. The program featured MCC's developmental program as one of eight models of colleges with exemplary services in areas such as reading, math, and career counseling.

Celebration in Song delights capacity High School Day crowd

Circus animals, magicians, clowns, and jugglers filled the Westside Chapel on April 2-3 for the MCC student body's annual extravaganza of song and drama, Celebration in Song. The entire chapel was draped into a red, white, and blue circus tent, complete with balloons and trapezes, as the students developed the theme "Magic of the Circus."

Presentations by each of the campus social clubs, the chorus, and Celebration Singers blended with exceptional numbers by the host and hostesses into a captivating Celebration program. Tony Davis of Hartford, Connecticut; Deanna Howe of Dayton, Ohio; Dawn McKamey of Indianapolis, Indiana; and Geannetta Walker of Buffalo, New York served as the host and hostesses.

Celebration attendance peaked at the High School Day matinee performance on Saturday, when chairs were placed in every possible place to accommodate the audience. A special chapel program, campus tours, and performances by the MCC A Cappella Chorus and Autumn preceded this special afternoon performance of Celebration.

Next year's seventh edition of Celebration in Song will again be presented in conjunction with High School Day. At that time, the MCC stage will be transformed into a huge castle, which will be graced by the knights and dragons from the age of "Camelot."
