1995 Cohort Study Continuing Student Survey Preliminary Analysis

Analysis:

- 1. Response rate (271 completed surveys) = 79% (9 surveys refused) = 3%
- 2. Type of survey derived from responses last year. Seven types were used.
- Reason3 : largest group was transfer credit 54% (increase of 8% from last year) associate degree 33% (increase of 8%) other reduced from 14% to 2%

This reflects movement in intentions toward more formal qualifications? Next survey should ask if this is result of OCC influence, external influences, personal development?

 Change: Overall 80 students changed reason i.e. 30%
 Of these the largest group was decided to continue education (26%) changed educational goal (20%)
 These two are very similar, could add together, this would account for almost half of the change.

changed my career goal (16%) Concern over 19% confused with terminology. Are our categories wrong, do students interpret differently, were they too new to college when first asked?

Crosstab 1: Reason by Change - analysis shows up the large group of transfer credit who decided to continue their education. There is also evidence of a number going to associate degree citing the same reason. Job skills for a new career is linked to "changed my career."

5. Stay3: Largest group chose one year (27%) next largest chose two years (21%) Two years decreased from 47% last year and one year increased from 13%. This would reflect movement through the system of a core group? Demonstrates some consistency.

Crosstab 2: Reason by stay, as you would expect clear differences in length of time students intend to stay linked to the reason they are here. Transfer credit students, for example, are most likely to choose two semesters or one year while associate degree students are most likely to choose two years, followed by one year.

6. Break3: 83% expect to enroll continuously (Fall, winter, spring) comparable with last year when 76% said this (5% margin of error).

Crosstab 3: Reason by break3, not much difference in response by the reason, tends to be around the low eighties for all groups.

- Credit3: Largest group 24% wanted 62 credits, slightly more than last year (20%). Next largest group is 60 credits (17%). Note that fewer students this year are "no response" (20% compared with 28% last year). No other patterns? Mean, 55, mode 62, median 60.
- 8 Trans3: 74% intend to transfer to a four-year school. !2% not intending to transfer. 7% to another two-year?

Crosstab 4: Reason by trans3 -91% of those intending to transfer, and 54% of associate degree group are intending to go to a four year school.

9. Longter3: Bachelor's degree 39% (down from 46%) last year. Professional, master's etc. 35% (slightly up from 32% last year) Does this link to the change we saw up front? Is it increase in educational expectation?

Crosstab 5: 43% of those here for an associates degree want a bachelor's in the long term, a similar percent of transfer students (40%) want a bachelor's in the long-term. There is more difference at the master's, professional level where 46% of transfer group want to end up compared with 24% of associate degree group.

10. Sure3: 56% of students are "very sure". 38% are "somewhat sure".

Crosstab 6: As might be expected the associate degree group (58%) and the transfer group (61%) are more likely to be "very sure".

11. Core Competencies:

Independent learning skills Communication skills	42% significant progress 34% significant progress
Problem solving	28% significant progress
Personal management	49% significant progress
Math skills	23% significant progress, 33% no progress
Interpersonal skills	32% significant progress
Greater awareness of world
problems	31% significant progress, 24% no progress
Effective use of technology	26% significant progress, 25% no progress
Understanding scientific methods	20% significant progress, 34% no progress

Issues here are that if they did not take a course directly related may perceive no progress even though the competencies are supposed to be taught in all areas. Probably predictable that these four areas would show up. Technology particular concern?

12. Career3:

38% made significant progress toward their career goal. 55% some progress.

Crosstab 7: The certificate group is most likely to have made significant progress towards their career goal (63%). Caution on small number. Transfer credit and associate degree both more likely to say made "some progress."

13. How3:

57% made progress in gaining some of the skills they need. 30% defined goals more clearly.

We need to ask next year how far OCC helped in either or both of these processes.

- 14. Current3: Employment data :36% full-time, 48% part-time. Typically higher part-time than this when we look at all students.
- 15. Related3: 62% highly related current job to studies.
- 16. License3: 97% have not taken licensing exams. 7 of 8 who did, passed.

Notes:

- 1. Confusion of respondents about the difference between career and educational goals. This is probably legitimate, should we change the question?
- 2. Much confusion about credits. How many credits for transfer?
