

Jackson Minister Elected to Council

JACKSON, Mich. — Harold Turner, minister of the Adams Street church, has been sworn in as Jackson's first Negro city commissioner.

Turner is filling the unexpired term of a commissioner who resigned. A graduate of Southwestern Christian College at Terrell, Tex., Turner is former counselor at the Jackson Juvenile Home. He has been a member of the Jackson Human Relations commission, serves on the board of the Jackson branch of the NAACP and the board of the Inner City Day Care Center.